What information do we collect?

When booking the full accommodation, we cannot help you without information, so, when you are using our services, we ask for certain information. In addition, we also collect data about your computer, which may include the IP address, the browser you are using, and the language settings.

There are also situations when we receive information about you from other people, or situations in which we automatically collect other information.

If you wish to contact us at the telephone number or through other channels available on the website under the tab Contact, or, for example, through social media, or interact with accommodation through our site, we will also collect information from you in such a case. After the stay, guests may be asked to submit a comment and thus help future guests to decide.

If you're browsing on a mobile device, you can enable Adria Holidays to see your current location, or allow access to your contacts - you thus help us to provide you with the best service possible.

You can participate in recommendation programs or other programs, which provide us with personal information. In addition, you can also send us your opinion or, during the use of the Adria Holidays services, ask for help.

If you aren't only making reservations for yourself and are travelling with other guests, the information of whom you provide in the context of reservations, or perform booking on behalf of someone else, we remind you, that you are responsible to ensure that the person or persons whose personal data you provided are aware, that you have done so and accept that Adria Holidays uses their data (as described in this privacy statement).

Even if you do not make reservations with us at the time of your visit to our web sites or applications, we may automatically collect certain data. These include your IP address, date and time of access to our services, hardware, software or a browser that you use, and information about your computer operating system and version of the application, and language settings. We may also collect information about your clicks and viewed pages.

If you are using a mobile device, data that identifies your mobile device, preferences and characteristics of the device, location information, application crashes, and other system activities, may also be collected. When you make a reservation, our system detects, through which assets and which websites you made the booking or entered on the website and / or applications of Adria Holidays.

Sometimes we may receive information about you from other sources. These include business partners, such as associate partners and other independent third parties. Everything they give us may be combined with data you provide us with. Booking services Adria Holidays are available only through the website of Adria Holidays, but are combined with the services of associated partners, which can be found online. When you use them, the information on booking is provided to our business partners and they then submit this data to us. Service providers also use third parties to allow payment from the person who made a reservation to the accommodation. These service providers share the billing information, so that we can edit your reservation and make sure that everything is running as smoothly as possible.

Another example, when the information is obtained from other sources, is the integration of call services into our platforms, by which we enable contact with the reserved accommodation. In these cases, we obtain metadata about your calls (such as: where did you call from, who you are, and the date and duration of the call). We may also receive information about you when you use certain social media services.

Even accommodation partners can share information about you with Adria Holidays. This can occur if you have questions about an active reservation, if there is any misunderstanding about the reservation, or other communication regarding your booking through Adria Holidays.

- When using our services we may send you a questionnaire or ask you to send us your comments regarding experiences with Adria Holidays.
